Today is National Newspaper Week. I was told it is also "The Good in Your Pet Week," but I really don't know if that is true. There's no harm in giving animals a treat if you want to. If you are a dog lover, you might enjoy this article on dogs.

this is National Newsletter Week. It is a time when people are encouraged to send messages to their neighbors. If you are a member of an organization, it is a good time to send out newsletters to your members. If you are a social worker, it is a good time to send out newsletters to your clients.

newspaper. The article is written in a style that is easy to read and understand. The writer is a professional who knows how to write clearly and concisely.

After Nearly 30 Years, Ninoses Still Cooking

By DAVID NYSER

What would happen if a couple opened a restaurant on the main street of their community? What would happen if the couple were married for nearly 30 years? What would happen if the restaurant was successful? This story is about one such couple.

John and Angie Ninos opened The Collegiate Restaurant in Alfred in 1949. They have been running the restaurant ever since, and it is still going strong.

The Ninoses have been in the business for nearly 30 years, and they have built up a loyal customer base. They say that the key to their success has been providing good food and good service. They have also been active in the community, sponsoring events and supporting local organizations.

The Ninoses have two children, John Jr. and Angie, who help out in the restaurant. They say that they are proud of their children and that they are looking forward to passing the business on to them.

The Ninoses have been married for nearly 30 years, and they say that they are looking forward to many more years of success in the restaurant business. They say that they enjoy seeing their customers and that they are proud of the reputation of their restaurant in Alfred and its surrounding area.
