HAVERSTRAW

A stable tax rate and an improvement of serviceable standards have made Haverstraw a good place to live, according to Supervisor Philip Rotella.

Haverstraw has been hard at work improving services over the past nine years. The town now has sewer service in the Hudson Valley, according to Rotella.

"It's one of the best sewer systems in the whole Valley," Rotella said. "It has been overhauled in the past few years, and now it's working very well."

According to Rotella, the cost of living in Haverstraw has been on the rise, but at the same time it's a fiscal responsibility for the town. "I think the town has to do more to keep up with the expenses, " Rotella said. "But at the same time, it's a fiscal responsibility for the town."

In addition, Rotella said that the town is working on a police department. "It's been hard to find good officers, " Rotella said. "But we're making progress and we're trying to improve the service we're providing."

The key is to keep the town affordable and to maintain a quality of life. "We're trying to make Haverstraw a good place to live, " Rotella said. "But it's a challenging task."
