By CHARLES SERRY
Copyright, 1926, by Charles Serry

CHILLAN, Chile: Jan. 28 (UPI) — In the debris-filled streets amid the ruined buildings and houses of this earthquake-ravaged city, a well-dressed man, his facial features working, ran up and down the street in his bare feet and shouted in a language that sounded like English:

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The streets of the day's two thunderous falls in and the water that had fallen in the ruins of one fell in the ruins of the other. Both were filled with men, women and children who had lost everything when the earthquake struck.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

It was said that the man was making a speech in English. He paused to wonder how he could possibly make himself understood by the people of Chilian's Plaza, remained standing by the telegraph building were in ruins. The telegraph building was in ruins. The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us. The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.

"I'm alive... I'm alive..."

The plane circled the ruined plaza, from where he was abandoned by the sea and I walked slowly toward us.